NUMBER 1

Hallowe'en Party.

Friday evening the younger set gave a Progressive Hallowe'en party. It began at the home of Miss Mary Myers at 7:30 o'clock. The house was lighted with Jack-o-lanterns and every thing ghostly, ghost meeting the guest at the door and escorting them from chamber to chamber.

Mrs. Irwin Fraser played the part of fortune-teller very splendidly.

A delightful salad course was served by Misses Regina Russell, Grace Conover and Mary Myers, who entertained the crowd.

At 8:30 o'clock after music and a good time in general the crowd started for the home of Miss Cary Rosenfield who together with Misses Lettie Dunbar and Mary Breeding gave a silent party. The whole house was artistically decorated with lanterns and autumn leaves. The couples were escorted to the Chamber of Horrors which they were both anxious and un-anxious to see since signs in all parts of the house read: See the "See the Chamber of Horrors, not a sound was heard but the tinkling bells in the Chamber, among the horrible sights was a ghostly lady suspended from the ceiling by her hair and a real live corpse. Miss Julia Eubank performed the part of fortune-teller in a cozy den cut off from the hall. Being led to the dining room they enjoyed a course of pressed fruit. After music and other amusements the old witch swept them out the door.

They then adjourned to Miss Susan Millers where Misses Dora Eubank, Loretta Dunbar and Miss Miller entertained. A good time generally being enjoyed in the beautiful lighted and decorated house. Pineapple ambrosia being served the crowd left for the next place Miss Kate Gills where Misses Gill, Creel Nell and Georgia Faulkner charmingly entertained with many ghostly yet amusing things. Heavenly hash was served and the good time was continued at the home of Miss Mildred Walker where Misses Walker, Dexter English, Ella Conover and Mary Triplett were giving the final party of the evening. Everything was lovely and amusing, hot chocolate and wafers were served and after a gay time the crowd left for their respective homes. Those present were: Mary Triplett and Clyde Crenshaw, Mary Myers and George Hancock, Grace Conover and Ed Diddle, Susan Miller and Rex Holiday, Loretta Dunbar and Edgar Reed, Creel Nell and Smith Gill, Regina Russell and Ward Denton, Lettie Dunbar and Albia Eubank, Mary Breeding and Clay Smith, Kate Gill and Tom Patterson, Misses Mildred Walker, Dexter English and Ella Conover, Cary Rosenfield and Waller Cook, Dora Eubank and Carl Thorpe.

For Sale.

Six room house, with 1 acre lot, well, and good out buildings. Located on Greensburg street.
1-2t Jo E. Flowers.

Last week we published the honor roll from the Graded School for the past month. In the sixth grade the name of Creel Beck was in the copy, but the compositor overlooked his name in setting up the report and it was omitted. Creel is a studious boy and it is not often that he fails to get on the honor roll. We are sorry that his name was not published, but we hope this notice will be satisfactory.

An entertainment will be given Saturday, Nov. 8th at 2:30 o'clock p. m. at the Graded School Chapel by pupils of the First Grade. The proceeds of this entertainment will be used in buying necessary equipment for the First Grade room. Admission 10cts.

E. S. Rice, of Cane Valley, delivered his tobacco raised on six acres and received for the crop $750.40. He sold for $3.00 and $10.00. This is one of the best sales of dark tobacco reported from this section so far.

The splint was removed from Mr. F. R. Winfrey's hip last Sunday and since the removal the patient is doing nicely. His friends are very hopeful of his ultimate recovery.

An infant child of Mr. and Mrs. David Elmore, Manntown, Russell county, was burned to death last Saturday.

Sam Burdett bought from different parties last week, nine mules, paying from $140 to $200 per head.

Columbia Lodge No. 230, I. O. O. F. will meet next Thursday night. A full attendance is desired.

Spooks at L. W. T. S.

On Hallowe'en night the big bell in Lindsey-Wilson college tolled forth its summon for all ghosts that happened to be in hiding in the dark nooks and corners of its buildings and its weird sounds were responded to by two long lines of "spooky" looking figures which were led to the main building dimly lighted by jack-o-lanterns where they mingled together until two witches rode into the back door upon their brooms and escorted them out upon the campus, around a huge bon fire, then through dark passages of every description and at last landed them safely into the large dining room which was more than alive with black cats, vampire spooks and goblins of all kinds. The committee on entertainment kept lively, interesting games in progress which all seemed to enjoy immensely, and at intervals the guests visited a far corner in the hall where one of the witches served to them delicious "brew" and from there they were led to the other witches' "den" where she gave them a glimpse into the future.

Candy and fruits were also served before the evening was over and the pupils departed to their respective abodes declaring it to be one of the most enjoyable affairs of their school life.

A Card of Thanks

I desire through the columns of the News, on behalf of myself and kindred, to express our sincere thanks to all of the neighbors of my mother and father, for their very kind and tender ministrations during the sickness and death of our mother, Mrs. Louisa Harmon. For the past twenty-one years I've lived in several of the Southern States where hospitality and kindness is considered to be of the highest type. But I want to say that no where are truer friends, or a better class of people to be found than right in old Adair county where I was reared and lived for the first twenty-seven years of my life. Especial mention I want to make of the large family of Murrell boys—sons of the late Albert Murrell, who live adjoining my parent's home.

Sincerely,
M. F. Harmon.

Some of the finest tobacco land in this section of the State is on this farm. Mr. John H. Willis, who was thrown from a mule ten days ago, breaking his left arm, was in town Monday. The fracture is rapidly knitting together and Mr. Willis states that he will be able to use his arm in a short time.

Osteopathy.

Write, and all communications will be carefully considered and promptly answered. Many diseases, pains and strained limbs and backs are amenable to this drugless treatment.

Dr. James Menzies
Columbia, Kentucky.

Mr. L. L. Eubank is doing very efficient work at the Paul Drug Co. He is a gentleman of fine moral character, one of the best stock keepers in Adair County, and has a number of substantial friends.

Mr. H. K. Taylor, who is a son of Mr. Matthew Taylor, is now employed as a salesman at Mr. Frank Sinclair's store. He is a popular gentleman and he invites his friends to call and see him.

Very Entertaining.

Rev. Charles R. Hamilton, of the Presbyterian Church, who has been a missionary in the Philippine Islands for the past six years, delivered a most entertaining lecture, to a crowded congregation, at the Presbyterian church last Sunday night. He took up the manner of living of the natives, their progress in civilization since the Islands were possessed by the United States, the enterprise of the natives, the growth of the city of Manila, over six hundred automobiles now owned and operated in that metropolis, its many factories, etc. He spoke for more than one hour, but the lecture was interesting from start to finish.

Rev. Hamilton's wife, two children, and his brother, Rev. Earl C. Hamilton, who is pastor of the Presbyterian Church, Marrowbone, were with him. Mrs. Hamilton also works as a missionary in the Philippines. Before returning to the Islands Rev. Hamilton purposes to raise $25,000 to be used for a college building in that far off country.

The meeting of the Hamilton family at this place was the first time they had all been together for more than six years, and it was certainly a very happy gathering. The days of "Auld Lang Syne," were recalled, and as they expressed it, the time for the family re-union was entirely too short.

Death of a Good Woman.

Mrs. Louisa Harmon, wife of Creed W. Harmon, departed this life on Saturday morning, Nov. 1st, at 11 o'clock. She was a Miss Smith, born in Taylor county, Kentucky, July 28th, 1841, making her in her 73 year. She raised a large family of children, 7 of whom still live, all living in Adair county except her oldest son, Elder M. F. Harmon, who lives in Louisville, and Mrs. B. B. Vaughan, who lives in Drottsville, near Bardstown. Mrs. Harmon had been in bad health for three years or more, but her recent illness was of only a few weeks duration, and her passing away was due to the infirmities of old age and a complication of troubles. She was a devoted member of the Christian church, having been baptized by her son about 32 years ago, when he first entered the ministry. She was ready and willing to depart. She was buried in the family burying ground on the Montgomery place in the Mount Pleasant neighborhood last Sunday evening. Brother Williams preached the funeral.

For Rent.

Six room house, garden, and good orchard, one-half mile from court house, Columbia, Ky. Also about 40 acres of good land for corn. Call First National Bank or G. W. Dillon, Breeding, Ky. 52-3t.

Shot Proved Fatal.

Mr. A. J. Franklin, who was deputy sheriff of Metcalfe county, and who was the Democratic nominee for high sheriff, died Saturday night at 7 o'clock, the result of a pistol shot fired a few nights before by Ches Pendleton. The cause of the shooting and the death of Lindsey Dowell, who was killed at the same time Franklin was shot, has already been published.

Ab Franklin was one of the most popular men in Metcalfe county, and his death is generally lamented. It is said that had he lived he would have been elected sheriff. Pendleton, who killed him, has not been apprehended, though every effort is being made to locate him. Franklin was shot five times, the fatal bullet penetrating his abdomen.

We have just read an address delivered by Mrs. N. B. Miller, published in the Springfield, Mo., Daily Leader, to the Sixth District women's Clubs, Greenfield, Mo. It is clothed in choice language and contains many interesting points for women. Mrs. Miller is a lady of information and never fails to entertain.

Communications for publication or inquiries for job-work should be addressed to the Adair County News. Frequently such documents are addressed to me and they go to my residence before reaching the office, causing a delay.

There is a black sow at my place. Will weigh about 200 pounds.

The Way of the Transgressor is Hard.

Bud Pendleton, a native of this county, who is making his home in Louisville, reached Columbia last Thursday night week. Not long after reaching here it became known to certain parties that Pendleton had some whisky which he would let out on the quiet. His business became known to the authorities and last Thursday he was arrested, charged with selling a quart to a young man in town. His trial came on and the jury disagreed, five being for conviction, one for acquittal. Saturday the case was again tried and Pendleton fined one hundred dollars and given ten days in jail. He was locked up until fine, etc. were satisfied.

Marriage Licenses.

The Adair County Clerk's office issued the following marriage licenses during the month of October: Everett Beard to Belle McGaha. Leo Bryant to Ida Kimbler. Dennis Eubank to Bessie E. Rice. J. A. Campbell to Louisa Bryant. C. B. Tarter to Mollie Sullins. Clem Burton to Pinkie Burton. W. C. Dixon to Mont Bryant. Willis Stephens to Liddie Parnell. Bob Sinclair to Estelle Burton. John M. Blair to Mary E. Eubank. Oscar Gribbins to Della May Ross. Ruel Bragg to Effie Coomer. W. O. Burton to Lucy Tedder. Rebt. Carter to Joann Bryant. J. W. Young to Mary Moran. E. K. Bottom to Ida Murray. Donley McElroy to Mary A. Gentry. J. P. Coffey to Minnie Lee Page. Gilbert A. Wilson to Minnie A. Burress. John P. Preston to Elizabeth Warner. Elma Richards to Pearl Foley.

Death of a Favorite Horse.

"Clyde," the well-known faithful family horse, raised and owned by Capt. W. W. Bradshaw, one he had driven in Sunday School work for the past 16 years, had traveled thousands of miles over the mountains of Kentucky and Tennessee, was found sick last Wednesday morning at feed time, at the Turk home, Barren county. He seemed to be paralyzed. He had close attention until next morning when he died. As Mrs. Bradshaw had always requested that he be buried, for his long service in the work, it was done in the afternoon on the Turk farm. He was 19 or 20 years old, but with good treatment all his life he was still a young horse when he died.

Terrible Outrage.

Last Friday night, Hallowe'en, a party or parties, who went out Burkesville street, about eleven o'clock, was guilty of an outrage that should be and is condemned by all law abiding citizens. The guilty party is not known, but when he got in front of Mr. W. T. Ottley's residence he fired his pistol, the ball passing through the family room, lodging in an inside door. Mrs. Ottley was in line of the bullet but was in a stooping position when the shot was fired. Had she been in a standing position the bullet would have struck her in the head.

It is not thought that an enemy of Mr. Ottley was guilty of this conduct, but it is attributed to whisky and indiscriminate firing of a pistol. This should be a warning to parties who are handy with their revolvers after night time. There is no occasion for a person in this community to have a pistol on him day or night, and if they were left severely alone much trouble would be avoided.

Congressman Helm Laid Up.

The Stanford Journal says: His many friends will regret to learn that Congressman Harvey Helm is quite ill at his apartments here, being threatened with a serious abscess. Mr. Helm came from Washington late last week, and his friends noticed that he appeared considerably thinner than is his wont, but attributed it to the hard work he has been doing during the special session of congress, which is still under way. After being about town for a day or two, he was compelled to take to his bed, and is still confined there under the orders of his physician, who hopes to have him out again within a few days.

Mrs. Franklin, who was the wife of the murdered deputy sheriff, of Metcalfe county, died Tuesday of grief. Pendleton, who fired the shot that killed Franklin, is still at large. We understand a large reward has been offered for his arrest.

Married at Bowling Green.

Last Monday, at high noon, Mr. Ray Montgomery, son of Hon. and Mrs. J. F. Montgomery, this city, was married to Miss Ruth Milliken, a young lady who is well-known and quite popular in Columbia, highly talented, having taught several terms in the Lindsey-Wilson School. The groom is a young lawyer of fine ability, and is practicing his profession in partnership with his father.

The couple will arrive from Bowling Green, this, Wednesday night, and for the present will board with the groom's parents. They will be given a cordial reception.
